CARDCON 2015: Bankers Heart Institute attempts at bridging a gap in Clinical Cardiology

11th Vibrant Academic Symposium – CARDCON 2015

Over two days, 17th – 18th October, cardiac practitioners, renowned cardiologists and cardiac surgeons gathered at The Gateway Hotel, Akota, Vadodara, to attend and participate at the 11th Vibrant Academic Symposium – CARDCON 2015, organized by the Bankers Group of Hospitals.

This particular symposium proved to be an effective platform for letting cardiac experts come together and participate in critical dialogue pertaining to wide array of fundamental clinical subjects. The symposium was successful in giving opportunities to globally renowned cardiac surgeons to share their learning with other present participants.

CARDCON-2015, like every year, was in response to the growing dire need of sharing insightful knowledge in clinical cardiology. The conference covered basic clinical subjects including Emergencies, ECGs, Echocardiography and daily clinical problems faced by surgeons. Varied range of speakers spoke at length in their field of expertise. They spoke coherently and narrated real-life examples to the audience.

The symposium was well attended and very well received by all the participants present. Surprisingly, Bankers Group of Hospitals added more value to the symposium by announcing their first ever Mobile Application. It is believed that their mobile-friendly application will help doctors and patients to connect better. To the heart and mind, the application sounds very promising as it will help doctors to save time and perform more effectively. On the contrary, it will also assist patients to fetch medical services promptly.

During this conference all cardiologist congratulated Dr. Darshan Banker for his outstanding academic performance – his original article has been published in the 'NEW ENGLAND JOURNAL OF MEDICINE (NEJM)' which is the most prestigious journal around the world.

The two-day conference offered unprecedented outcome on both the days, and was greatly appreciated by everyone in attendance. Bankers Heart Institute, organizers of the symposium, promised to continue their tradition of organizing such similar endeavors in the coming days.
